

THE CALL

READY — SELF-PREP

Fatima is already reading in the top-10% zone — a projected MCQ 37–42 with an essay band 7/10. Both halves clear the competitive line. No course is needed — protect the reading pace and keep the essay sharp.

WHERE YOU STAND — THE TWO HALVES, READ SEPARATELY
CRITICAL READING & LOGICAL REASONING · 0-42

Projected MCQ 37–42 (of 42) · around the 99th percentile. The competitive line is 27; the top-decile line is 33.
ESSAY · 0-10 BAND

Essay band 7 / 10 (AI-marked to LNAT-style criteria).

DOMINANT ERROR PATTERN

Concept gaps

8% of reading questions were missed after full engagement — teachable reasoning gaps, the most fixable kind of loss.

STRENGTHS FIRST

Fatima already handles Main-idea extraction, Assumption identification, Inference & implication at a level worth protecting. Everything below builds on that base — it does not start from zero.

WHAT THIS MEANS

The MCQ projection and the essay band both sit at or above the competitive line, and the errors left are pace-shaped, not reasoning gaps. The remaining marks come back through timed practice on official material, not new content — paying for a course now would be paying to fix what rehearsal fixes for free. The plan overleaf is a four-week protect-and-sharpen routine.

Provisional norms — anchored to published LNAT statistics; UAE pilot norms follow · Essay marked by AI to LNAT-style criteria — indicative, not an official LNAT/LSAC mark · Independent diagnostic — not affiliated with LNAT or LSAC

CRITICAL READING & LOGICAL REASONING – ACCURACY AT LNAT PACE

Critical Reading & Logical Reasoning

12/12 answered · on pace · LNAT pace

ESSAY – REPORTED SEPARATELY, NEVER BLENDED INTO THE MCQ SCORE

The essay came in at 550 words, comfortably over the 400-word floor (the target is around 550 words). Band 7 / 10, AI-marked to LNAT-style criteria.

TWO THINGS TO WORK ON IN THE ESSAY

1. Take and hold a clearer position

How to improve: State your thesis in the opening and make every paragraph serve it.

2. Tighten the structure

How to improve: Give each paragraph one point that builds on the last, and signpost the moves.

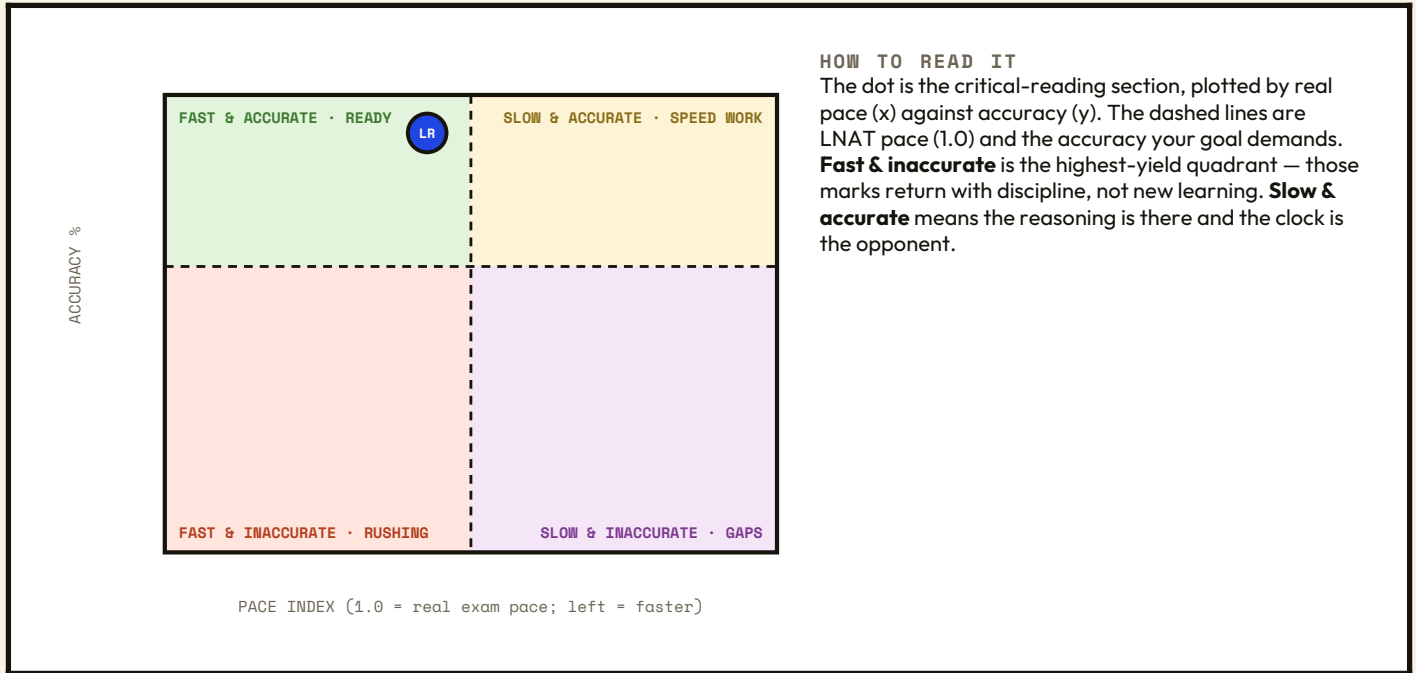

GAP - TO - TARGET

Declared goal: top-20% zone (MCQ 27+).

The projected MCQ range already reaches this zone. The work now is holding it under real conditions and lifting the essay, not chasing more reading questions.

Runway: about 6 weeks to your stated sitting.

The signature read

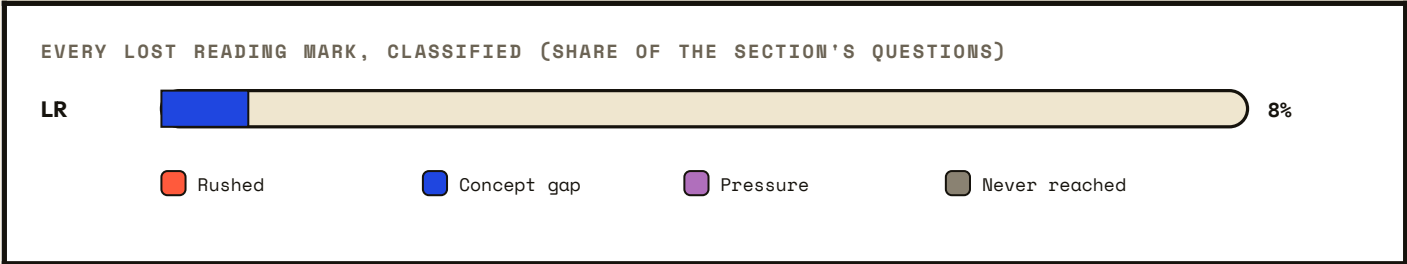

PACING VERDICT (MEDIAM SECONDS PER QUESTION VS THE REAL LMAT'S OWN PACE)

SECTION	MEDIAM VS BENCH	PACE INDEX	ZONE	ENDURANCE
Critical Reading & Logical Reasoning	121.5s vs 135s	PI 0.9	exam pace	finished stronger

The essay clock is its own opponent. Forty minutes is enough to plan, argue and answer the other side — but only if the plan is fast. The named reasoning slips overleaf (the fallacy patterns) are the same errors that cost marks in the essay, so fixing them lifts both halves of the score at once.

Why marks were lost

NAMED REASONING SLIPS (A FALLACY IS ONLY NAMED AFTER 3+ HITS)
 No single fallacy pattern appeared three or more times — the reading errors here do not share one repeated cause.

SKILL MAP — WHAT'S MASTERED, WHAT'S DEVELOPING, WHERE TO FOCUS

Fallacy recognition	LR · 50%	DEVELOPING
Main-idea extraction	LR · 100%	MASTERED
Assumption identification	LR · 100%	MASTERED
Inference & implication	LR · 100%	MASTERED

Two students with the same MCQ total can carry completely different maps — the plan overleaf works this map, not the total.

Your protect-and-sharpen plan

Everything here is rehearsal, not new content. The aim is to make the reading pace automatic and keep a strong essay reflexive.

Weeks 1–2 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Two timed critical-reading sets a week on the official LNAT practice • Log every rushed mark — those are the recoverable points 	Weeks 3–4 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • One timed 40-minute essay a week; plan fast, argue both sides • Review essays against the LNAT-style criteria, not a grade 	Weeks 5–6 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • One full timed LNAT-style sitting under exam conditions • Confirm the pace holds across reading and essay 	Ongoing <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Light weekly reading set plus one essay to keep the edge • Confirm the applications and their LNAT dates

ESSAY – THE FOUR CRITERIA, MARKED TO LNAT-STYLE BANDS

Defended position		7
Structure & progression		7
Economy of expression		7
Engagement with counter-arguments		7

Each bar is one of the criteria a strong LNAT essay is read against. The lowest bar is where an hour of focused redrafting moves the band furthest.

BOOKING & TIMING

LNAT test dates are not fixed nationally — each university sets its own LNAT deadline, so check every course on your list and register for the LNAT at least a few weeks before the earliest one. As a rule, sit it once the reading pace and a 40-minute essay both feel comfortable, not before. You noted a sitting about 6 weeks out — the plan is sized to that.

WHERE TO WORK – IN THIS ORDER

- Official LNAT practice on lnat.ac.uk (free) — the practice tests and the essay guidance are the only ones that match the real format
- LSAC LawHub (free) — official LSAT logical-reasoning questions, the closest free drill for the reasoning skills; Khan Academy's free LSAT prep covers the same ground
- The plan above sequences these — start with Fallacy recognition, on the official LNAT material first

FOR THE PARENT – THE WHOLE REPORT IN ONE PARAGRAPH

Fatima is projected at MCQ 37–42 (of 42) with an essay band 7/10. Our call: no paid preparation is needed — the free official materials plus the rehearsal plan protect this.
